Nothing too good for C. W. G. Ward, says editor.

Will Robinson, the versatile editor of the Roswell Register-Tribune, pays the following neat compliment to District Attorney C. W. G. Ward: "The editor of the Register-Tribune has received with much pleasure an invitation to the wedding of C. W. G. Ward, erstwhile city editor of the Albuquerque Journal and the Las Vegas Optic, and now prosecuting attorney of Las Vegas district. On next Monday, July 12, he will wed Miss Garnet Van Petten, the ceremony occurring at St. Paul's Episcopal church. There isn't anything on earth too good for staunch, bright old Charley Ward, and we are sorry that we can't be there and see the knot tied."

Dies one week after arrival in Las Vegas.

Don T. Parnam, a healthseeker who came here from Kansas City the last day of June, suffering from tuberculosis in an advanced stage, died at his apartments some time last night. "So Cayuse Charley met his fate at the hands of a posse?" "Yep," answered Three-finger Sam. "What was the trouble?"

"His immediate difficulty was a lack of judgment as to speed. He helped himself to a horse, but didn't pick one that was fast enough to keep ahead of the party as went after him." —Washington Star.

The Young Turk was short of sight. "Let us," he cried, impulsively, "quit being so horribly unspeakable." But the Old Turk saw further, and was more considerate of vested interests.

"No," he replied, "for if we should, it would put all the swell hotels in Christendom to the trouble of finding a new name for their Turkish rooms." —Puck.

"A down-hearted chap in my office a few minutes ago," remarked Stubb. "He kept saying, 'Give me a rope! Give me a rope!'"

"Great Scott!" exclaimed Penn, in alarm. "I hope you didn't accommodate him?"

"Sure thing."

"Gave him a rope?"

"Yes, I handed him one of those cigars you gave me today." —Chicago News.

The strawberry shortcake, I love it, I love it! I prize it more highly than tongue dare to tell; no sherbert or pudding or pie is above it; there's nothing in pastry I like half as well. Just give me a section as large as a platter, with freshly crushed berries spread over the lot, and I am contented and happy, no matter what ailments or troubles or sorrows I've got. Ho, bring on the shortcake, the strawberry shortcake, and always and ever I'm Jack-on-the-spot!—Los Angeles Express.

When the stringed band, hidden behind the rose and carnation screen in Mrs. Poole's dining-room began, the daughter of the house turned hopefully to the young and apparently dumb stranger, who had been told to take her in.

Here was a promising opening for conversation.

"Do you like Meyerbeer?" she asked.

"I never drank a glass of those lagers in my life," the young man replied coldly.—Youth's Companion.
